CONTENTS

Summary xi

Résumé xiii

Zusammenfassung xv

Note on the text xvii

List of contributors xix

List of illustrations xxi

List of tables xxvii

Acknowledgements xxix

1. THE SCULPTOR'S CAVE: A PLACE APART 1

1.1 Cannibals, demons and monsters 1
1.2 The Sculptor's Cave, Covesea 1
1.3 Location, topography and geology 3
1.4 The recent history of the Covesea Caves 4
1.5 Discovery and excavation 7
1.6 Excavating the archives 10
1.7 Structure of the volume 14

2. EXCAVATION RESULTS 15

2.1 Introduction 15
2.1.1 General 15
2.1.2 Notes on the Shepherd recording system 15
2.1.3 Stratigraphic blocks 16
2.1.4 Phasing 16
2.1.5 The excavated areas 16
2.1.6 Stratigraphic recording prior to the Shepherds' excavations 17
2.2 Early non-anthropogenic deposits 24
2.2.1 Introduction 24
2.2.2 Coarse sands 24
2.2.3 Clay-dominated deposits 24
2.2.4 Windblown sand and clay laminae 25
2.2.5 Summary 25
2.3 Phase 1: Late Bronze Age 26
2.3.1 General 26
2.3.2 East Passage 26
2.3.3 West Passage 30
2.3.4 Discussion 35
2.4 Phase 2: Iron Age 45
2.4.1 General 45
2.4.2 East Passage 45

2.4.3 West Passage 48
2.4.4 Discussion 53
2.5 Phase 3: Roman Iron Age 55
2.5.1 General 55
2.5.2 East Passage 55
2.5.3 Discussion 55
2.6 Later activity 55

3. THE PICTISH AND LATER CARVINGS 57

3.1 Introduction 57
3.1.1 Pictish symbols 57
3.1.2 The meaning of the symbols 57
3.1.3 Chronology 58
3.2 Pictish carvings at the Sculptor's Cave 58
3.2.1 General 58
3.2.2 Flower and triple oval 59
3.2.3 Fish and crescent and V-rod 62
3.2.4 Pentacles 64
3.2.5 Crescent and V-rod, double rectangle, mirror case and step symbol 65
3.2.6 Triple oval, rectangles with concave sides and notched rectangle 67
3.2.7 Crescents and V-rod, arch/horseshoe and mirror/mirror case(s) 68
3.2.8 Crescent and V-rods and mirror case 68
3.3 Later carvings 68
3.3.1 General 68
3.3.2 Simple crosses 68
3.3.3 Large cross 69
3.3.4 Curse and inscription 69
3.4 Recent and early modern graffiti 71
3.5 Discussion 71
3.5.1 The appearance of the carvings 71
3.5.2 Symbol pairs 71
3.5.3 Dating the symbols 72
3.5.4 Pictish symbols in caves and on outcrops 72
3.5.5 Interpreting the symbols 73
3.5.6 Putting devils to flight 73

4. CHRONOLOGY: ARCHAEOLOGY, RADIOCARBON DATING AND BAYESIAN MODELLING 75

Derek Hamilton, Ian Armit, Rick Schulting and Lindsey Büster

4.1 Introduction 75
4.1.1 General 75
4.1.2 Radiocarbon dates 75
4.1.3 Sample selection and strategy: 2006/7 75
4.1.4 Sample selection and strategy: 2015 75
4.1.5 Additional sample: 2016 80
4.2 Results and calibration 80
4.3 Methodological approach 80
4.4 Samples and models 81
4.4.1 East Passage 81
4.4.2 West Passage 83
4.4.3 Unstratified remains 83
4.4.4 The model 83
4.5 Model results 83
4.5.1 Sensitivity analysis 84
4.5.2 Further queries of the Primary model 85
4.6 Discussion 86

5. THE FINDS 87

5.1 Introduction 87
5.2 Pottery 87
5.2.1 Later prehistoric pottery (Gemma Cruickshanks and Alison Sheridan) 87
5.2.2 Petrographic analysis (Daniel Sahlén) 97
5.2.3 Samian pottery (Colin Wallace) 98
5.3 Worked bone, antler, teeth and shell (Gemma Cruickshanks and Fraser Hunter) 99
5.3.1 Introduction 99
5.3.2 Raw materials 99
5.3.3 Manufacturing 99
5.3.4 Chronology 100
5.3.5 Recovery/preservation bias 100
5.3.6 Discussion 101
5.3.7 Catalogue 101
5.4 Coarse stone (Gemma Cruickshanks) 112
5.4.1 Summary 112
5.4.2 Discussion 112
5.4.3 Catalogue 113
5.5 Comment on the gaming pieces (Mark A Hall) 115
5.6 Lithics (Torben Bjarke Ballin) 116
5.6.1 Introduction 116
5.6.2 Catalogue 116
5.7 Non-ferrous objects 117
5.7.1 Late Bronze Age objects (Katharina Becker, Trevor Cowie, Lore Troalen and Jim Tate) 117
5.7.2 Iron Age and Roman silver, copper alloy and lead objects (Fraser Hunter) 130
5.7.3 Roman coins (Sam Moorhead, with catalogue by Nick Holmes) 149
5.8 Iron (Gemma Cruickshanks) 158
5.8.1 Introduction 158
5.8.2 Catalogue 158
5.9 Amber (Fraser Hunter) 159
5.9.1 Introduction 159
5.9.2 Catalogue 159
5.10 Oil shale (Fraser Hunter) 160
5.10.1 Introduction 160
5.10.2 Catalogue 160
5.11 Fossil plant stem (Fraser Hunter) 161
5.12 Orpiment (Gemma Cruickshanks) 161
5.13 Glass 161
5.13.1 Glass objects (Fraser Hunter and Mary Davis) 161
5.13.2 Roman vessel glass (Dominic Ingemark and Fraser Hunter) 165
5.14 Discussion (Gemma Cruickshanks, Fraser Hunter, Ian Armit and Lindsey Büster) 165
5.14.1 Introduction 165
5.14.2 Manufacturing, repair and repurpose 166
5.14.3 Chronological summary 166
5.14.4 Spatial patterning and structured deposition 169
5.14.5 Wider context 169
5.14.6 The context of the Late Roman Iron Age material 172
5.14.7 Conclusions 175

6. HUMAN REMAINS 177

6.1 Introduction 177
6.2 Terminology 177
6.3 Minimum number of individuals 179
6.4 Age representation 179
6.5 Chronology 181
6.6 Element representation 184

6.7 Spatial distribution 187
6.8 Osteological analysis (Rick Schulting, Christopher Knüsel and Ian Armit) 188
6.8.1 Introduction 188
6.8.2 Late Bronze Age 188
6.8.3 Roman Iron Age 193
6.8.4 Unstratified/undated 199
6.9 Stable isotope analysis (Rick Schulting and Ian Armit) 200
6.10 Reconstructing mortuary practices (Lindsey Büster and Ian Armit) 201
6.10.1 The core assemblage: element index 201
6.10.2 A comparative perspective 205
6.10.3 Element index by age 209

7. ENVIRONMENT, ECONOMY AND SUBSISTENCE 215

7.1 Introduction 215
7.2 Landscape reconstruction (Michael Stratigos) 215
7.2.1 Background 215
7.2.2 Sources 215
7.2.3 Results 215
7.2.4 Conclusions 220
7.3 Soil micromorphology (Jo McKenzie) 220
7.3.1 Introduction 220
7.3.2 Method (Julie Boreham and Jo McKenzie) 221
7.3.3 Analysis 221
7.3.4 Main deposit group profiles 222
7.3.5 Interpretation 224
7.3.6 Conclusions 225
7.4 Animal bone (Clare Rainsford) 225
7.4.1 Introduction 225
7.4.2 Methods 225
7.4.3 Results 225
7.4.4 Discussion and wider context 230
7.5 Marine molluscs (Daniel Shaw) 231
7.5.1 Introduction 231
7.5.2 Quantification 231
7.5.3 Modified shells 231
7.5.4 Conclusions 231
7.6 Carbonised plant macrofossils and charcoal (John Summers) 231
7.6.1 Introduction 231
7.6.2 Methods 231
7.6.3 Results 234
7.6.4 Preserved stakes 242
7.6.5 Discussion 242

8. CAVES, COSMOLOGY AND IDENTITY 245

8.1 Introduction 245
8.2 The Sculptor's Cave: a speculative biography 245
8.3 Worlds apart: caves as liminal places 247
8.4 Experiencing the Sculptor's Cave 248
8.4.1 The Sculptor's Cave as a physical space 248
8.4.2 Space and movement 248
8.4.3 Light 248
8.4.4 Temperature 248
8.4.5 Fire and smoke 248
8.4.6 Sound 249
8.4.7 Smell 249
8.4.8 The cave through time 249

8.5 Caves and the dead 249
8.5.1 Late Bronze Age funerary rites 249
8.5.2 The decapitation 'event' 253
8.5.3 Roman Iron Age funerary activity 255
8.6 The question of continuity 258
8.6.1 An Iron Age lacuna? 258
8.6.2 The nature of the Iron Age activity 258
8.6.3 The Iron Age underground 259
8.6.4 Underworld encounters 259
8.7 Closure and commemoration 259
8.7.1 Sealing a spiritually dangerous place? 259
8.7.2 Memorialising the dead 260
8.8 Conclusion and prospect 261

Appendix 1 263

Appendix 2 264

References 265

Index 281

BOX SECTIONS

1 Laser scanning the cave 13
2 Spoil heap excavations (2014) 21
3 Structured light scanning of the carvings 60
4 The Benton bones 180